LOS ANGELES COUNTY POPULATION

On January 1, 1958, the Commission estimates that Los Angeles County had a total population of 5,614,212. This is a population gain of 212,938 for 1957, or an increase of 1,462,525 since the 1950 census.

SPECIAL CENSUSES

During 1957, twenty-two of the sixty cities within Los Angeles County had special censuses. This is three less than in 1953, the previous post-1950 peak year. The combined population enumerated during the past year in these censuses totaled 819,822. This represents a survey of approximately fourteen and one-half percent of the county's estimated total population at year's end.

1955	15	459,780
1956	14	2,580,439
1957	22	819,822

Since 1950, the Bureau of the Census has conducted ninety-four special censuses for forty-three of the cities within Los Angeles County. West Covina leads with a total of six followed closely by Glendora and Torrance with five each. The other cities which have had special censuses are as follows: four censuses, Covina and Pomona; three, Arcadia, Azusa, El Segundo, Gardena, Hawthorne, Inglewood, Manhattan Beach, Montebello, and Palos Verdes Estates; two, Burbank, Claremont, Compton, Culver City, El Monte, Hermosa Beach, Los Angeles, Monrovia, Monterey Park, Redondo Beach, San Fernando, Sierra Madre, South Gate, and Whittier; one, Alhambra, Baldwin Park, Bell, Beverly Hills, Glendale, La Puente, La Verne, Lynwood, Maywood, Paramount, San Gabriel, San Marino, Santa Monica, and South Pasadena.

Only six of the cities in existence in 1950, Avalon, Huntington Park, Long Beach, Pasadena, Signal Hill, and Vernon have not had special censuses. However, Signal Hill has a count scheduled for early in 1958. Of the remaining eleven cities which have not had a Bureau survey, all but two were created in 1957.

ADJUSTMENTS

The population estimates for El Monte, El Segundo, Dairy Valley, Glendale, Hawthorne, Inglewood, Paramount and Torrance, and the dwelling unit figures for Gardena, Manhattan Beach and South Pasadena were adjusted to reflect the special census results which were published during the quarter. The populations of Gardena, Manhattan Beach and South Pasadena were adjusted in the previous bulletin.

The Glendale dwelling unit estimate was reduced 1,054 units; and 28 dwelling units and 134 persons were deducted from the Vernon estimates as the result of field surveys recently completed by officials of each of these cities.

During the quarter, the following cities increased their dwelling unit estimates through annexation: Downey, 1807; El Monte, 140; Glendora, 56; and Inglewood, 154. A transfer of 365 dwelling units from 17.33 to 17.2 was made as the result of a staff field survey of the area. Statistical Area 28.62 was annexed completely by Alhambra (28.1).

THE REGIONAL PLANNING COMMISSION — COUNTY OF LOS ANGELES

Arthur J. Baum, Chairman — Milton Breivogel, Director
103 W. Second St., Los Angeles 12, Calif. MU 9211 - Ext. 4785
Population Research Section — 257 S. Spring St. Room 247

LOS ANGELES COUNTY POPULATION 1950-1958

The Commission estimates that on April 1, 1958 Los Angeles County had a population of 5,660,972. This is an eight year increase of 1,509,285 since the 1950 Census, or a population growth which has exceeded by over 143,000 the County's population increase between 1940 and 1950.

A glance at the accompanying table gives some indication of the distribution of this growth. The Encino, Norwalk and Citrus Areas lead with 10%, 9.7% and 7.9%, respectively, of the total population increase for 1950-58. In contrast, the 1940-50 leading area was Long Beach with 8.6% of the decade's growth, while the Burbank and South East Areas closely followed with 8% each and the Inglewood Area held third place with 7%.

PICO RIVERA, THE SIXTY-FIRST CITY

On January 29, 1958, Pico Rivera became Los Angeles County's sixty-first city and the sixteenth community to incorporate since 1953. Located north of Downey, between the Rio Hondo and the San Gabriel River, the new city has been designated Statistical Area 34.4.

ADJUSTMENTS

The population estimates of La Verne and Signal Hill, and the dwelling unit counts of Baldwin Park, El Monte, Hawthorne, Montebello, and Paramount have been adjusted to reflect the results of the latest special censuses.

Large acreage annexations to Industry, Rolling Hills Estates, and Santa Fe Springs were recorded late in the quarter and are shown on the map below. Population changes which these may involve will be shown in the next issue.

These and other adjustments made in this issue reflect the availability of more accurate data and should not be interpreted as indicating a sudden gain or loss.

OUR EIGHTEENTH YEAR

This issue marks the beginning of the eighteenth year of the publication of the Bulletin. The Commission wishes to thank the many municipalities, public agencies, business firms and individuals whose cooperation has made this publication possible.

LOS ANGELES COUNTY POPULATION

July 1, 1958 Estimate 5,709,011

1958 CENTER OF POPULATION

A recently completed Commission study found that, on April 1, 1958, Los Angeles County's center of population was located near the intersection of Pico and Main Streets. This slight eastward movement from Fifteenth and Figueroa Streets, the 1950 center of population, reflects eight years of almost counter balancing population growth in Los Angeles County. The great population expansion in the San Fernando Valley was matched by increases in such southeastern Statistical Areas as Norwalk, Long Beach and Whittier. Similarly, the gains in East San Gabriel Valley's Citrus and Puente Hills were equaled by the growth of the southwestern Inglewood and Palos Verdes Areas. However, it was the increases in the Antelope Valley section of North County which tipped the balance moving the center eastward.

When North County is removed from consideration, the center of population for the coastal plain, or south county, moved slightly westward from it's 1954 location to a point near the intersection of Broadway and Venice Boulevard. Principally, this shift resulted from the somewhat greater overall gains registered in the western sections and small losses in the Northeast and East Statistical Areas.

CENTER OF POPULATION[1] LOS ANGELES COUNTY

Date	Location
April, 1958	Pico and Main Streets
April, 1950	Fifteenth and Figueroa Streets
April, 1940	Eleventh and Hill Streets
April, 1930	Eleventh and Hill Streets

SOUTH COUNTY[2]

April, 1958	Broadway and Venice Boulevard
April, 1954	Fourteenth and Main Streets

1 These centers were determined by the median method. This requires the division of the total population into equal north-south and east-west segments. The point at which the two lines of division intersect is the median center.

2 Excludes 20.1, North County.

SOUTH EL MONTE

On June 24, 1958, the citizens of South El Monte voted 454 to 257 to create Los Angeles County's sixty-second city. As of July 1, 1958, the city had not completed the official filings necessary for incorporation, therefore, it is not shown in this Bulletin.

ADJUSTMENTS

Special Census results received during the past quarter required adjustment in the population estimates of Claremont, Covina, Huntington Park, Monterey Park, Palos Verdes Estates, Pomona and West Covina. A population transfer of 900 was made from North to South Torrance (16.4 to 23.2) to reflect a census tract breakdown recently released by the Bureau of the Census. Reductions were made in the dwelling unit figures for La Verne and Signal Hill to bring them in line with the latest Special Census counts.

Annexations which involved 20 or more dwelling units were recorded for Santa Fe Springs, Pomona, Hawthorne and Industry, respectively.

These and other adjustments made in the issue reflect the availability of more accurate data and should not be interpreted as indicating a sudden gain or loss.

LOS ANGELES COUNTY POPULATION

October 1, 1958 Estimate 5,763,000

NATURAL INCREASE AND MIGRATION

In the eight and one-half years since the 1950 Census, Los Angeles County has experienced an estimated population increase of slightly over 1,611,300. The two sources of this growth are net natural increase, the surplus of births over deaths; and net migration, a greater number of persons moving into the County than those leaving. A review of Los Angeles County's 1950-1957 population growth indicates that net natural increase accounted for 36.7% and net in-migration 63.3% of the estimated total population increase.

Stated in other terms, since 1950, net natural increase has contributed 191 and in-migration 328 to the County's estimated average increase of 519 persons a day.

The summary of births and deaths shown below points up the increasing importance of natural increase as a factor in Los Angeles County's population growth.

THE SIXTY-SECOND CITY

South El Monte became Los Angeles County's sixty-second city on July 30, 1958 and the seventeenth community to incorporate since the 1950 Census. Designated sub-statistical area 12.3, the new city is the County's smallest, containing an area of only 1.124 square miles.

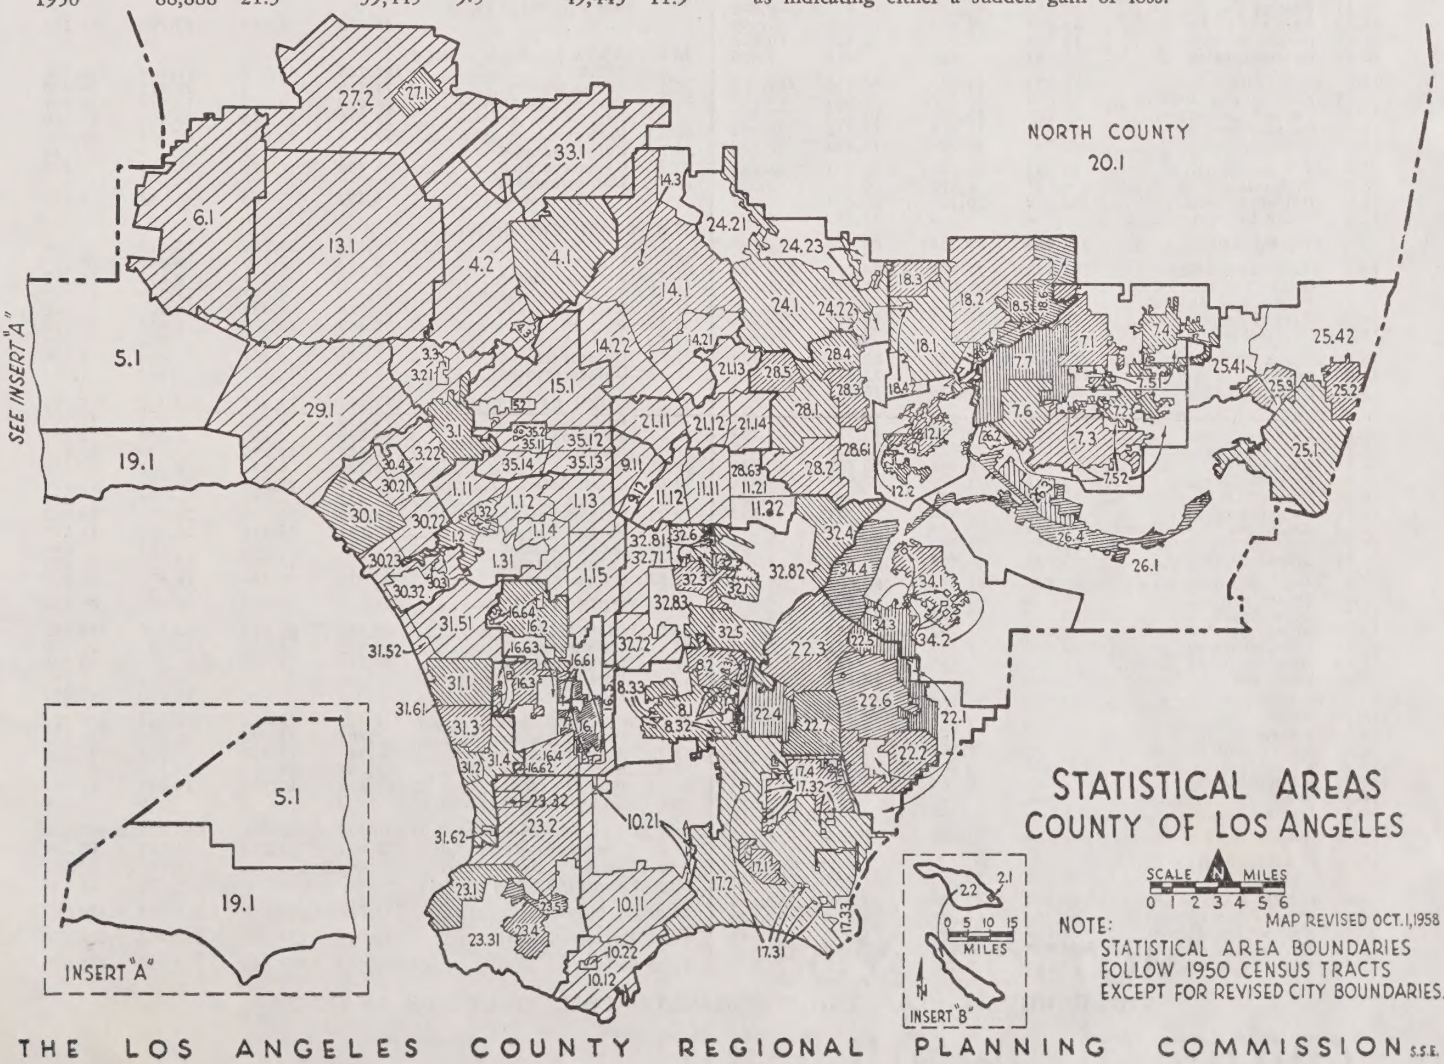
Walnut, a community located between La Puente and Pomona, will go to the polls on December 16, 1958 to decide whether or not to become the sixty-third city.

ADJUSTMENTS

Special Census results received during the past quarter are reflected in the adjusted dwelling unit estimates for Claremont, Covina, Huntington Park, Monterey Park, Palos Verdes Estates and West Covina.

Downey's dwelling unit count was increased 377 units to correct an error in our records which occurred during a transfer of the building and safety function to municipal control.

Several other adjustments have been made in this issue to reflect the availability of more current data and should not be interpreted as indicating either a sudden gain or loss.



No. 62. October 1, 1958.
